The Atlanta Metro Export Challenge (Atlanta MEC) is a dynamic grant program to engage and challenge metro Atlanta companies to think about their export strategies and to move them to act. The Atlanta MEC is one component of the Atlanta Metro Export Plan, launched in June 2015.

Each grant winner receives a reimbursement grant of up to $5,000 to apply toward expenses related to building export capacity and activities. Grant winners that utilize the grant funds and show export success may be invited back to a Round Two competition, in which they present to a panel of judges on Pitch Day to compete for additional export grant funds. At Pitch Day, companies present their exportable product or service, their export success with the initial grant, and business plan for further export development. The top three companies at the Pitch Day receive $20,000, $10,000, and $5,000 in additional grant funds, respectively.
